ESPIONAGE IN FRANCE.

HOW ONE IS MADE AWARE OF THE REIGN OF THE SPY SYSTEM.

Spies Found in Every Walk of Life in Every Portion of the Big City of Paris.
How They Watch and Report the Motions and Words of a Stranger.

The third republic is no freer than were any previous French regimes from this deep taint of what the French call mouchardise. Never before at any period of France's history has the reign of spionnage been so widespread and absolute in Paris as now. There has been latterly much discussion in the world's press of the extraordinary degree to which official espionage obtains in Russia, and very interesting details have been forthcoming on the subject. I am now in a position to affirm that in Paris—I do not say throughout the whole of France—the meshes of the detective net are woven even more closely round the entire population than has ever been the case in St.
Petersburg. Evidence of this fact might easily be found in the secret history of the Boulangerist conspiracy. From first to last every detail of this movement was known to the police, more than three-fourths of the Boulangerists themselves being informers.

The instant you arrive at a Paris station you are in the midst of spies. You are driven to a hotel in a cab. In half an hour the cabman will furnish the police with any particulars he may have been able to gather concerning your position, C stination, business, etc.

CHARACTER OF THE SPIES.
Arrived at your hotel you become the object of scrutiny, as close as it is secret, on the part of divers persons, who,
though attached to the place in the capacity of manager or cashier, or even porter or "boots," are in reality enrolled soldiers of the great detective army.
And here I may mention a special characteristic of the French detective system—its faculty of recruiting adherents in all classes of society. French spies for the most part are not simple spies and nothing more. They have a trade or occupation of their own, to which they seem wholly and solely devoted,
while yet assiduously pursuing sub rosa their spying.

The unsuspecting stranger in Paris has dinner at his hotel served by a waiter, who, as a matter of course, is in the pay of the police and will subsequently report to them what conversation he over-hears during the meal. He then sallies forth for an evening's amusement of the true Parisian sort.

First he repairs to one of the brilliant boulevard playhouses. A few stalls away from him sits a gentlemanly looking man with steady, observant eyes,
who glances now and again at our friend
in such a way as to make the latter think, "I wonder where I have seen that man before?" He never has seen him before, but it doesn't enter his head for a moment to suspect the man of being what he really is—a police spy.

SPIES EVERYWHERE.
The play over, there is just time for half an hour's stroll under the horse chestnuts in the Jardin de Paris. Here nine-tenths of the attendants are either spies or scamps, or may, indeed, be both at once, for French police authorities are not very squeamish in choosing their instruments, and seem to have a sort of preference for scoundrels over others.
Their theory runs that the greater villain
a man is the better spy he will make;
moreover, the most efficacious means of keeping a man under spy surveillance is to have him become a spy himself, for spies spy upon each other quite as much as on the rest of mankind.

But our foreigner finishes up the evening by turning into the Cafe Americaine for supper, where he has for next door neighbor a young woman, with whom he enters into conversation. She has a sweet smile, which displays two rows of glittering teeth, and puts many questions to him concerning France and the French. Naturally enough, our visitor imagines this is all done out of that bright, easy Gallic politeness he admires so much, for how is he to know that every word he has said in reply will come to the ear of the police not later than the following afternoon?

If our friend be fond of sport he will soon be finding his way to the race courses near the capital, and into the baccarat clubs, with which Paris abounds, and here he will be hourly in contact with police spies in greater number than there are racers on the course or cards in the pack. And so the game goes on in every sphere of Paris life and society.—Philadelphia Times.

Origin of a Stylish Cravat.
At the battle of Steinkirk, which took place on the morning of Aug. 3, 1692, the French nobles were surprised in their sleep, and hastily rushing out of their tents, they arranged their lace cravats in the most careless manner. The French were victorious, and to commemorate their victory it became the fashion after this to wear the neckcloth in a negligé manner. Hence the origin of the Steinkirk cravat, as it was afterward called.

Microbes and Digestion.
A Russian physician has found that microbes are always present in great numbers in the fasting stomach of a healthy person. During the earlier part of digestion they are always quite numerous. The gastric juice, however, tends to destroy the microbes, though no effect on digestion appears to be exerted by them.—Arkansas Traveler.

HUNTINGTON'S ARGUMENT.

C. P. Huntington, President of the Southern Pacific Company, publishes a letter in the Washington Post showing why the Government cannot with advantage to the public interests, or with justice to the corporations concerned, proceed to foreclose its claims upon the Pacific railroads, and why it should grant to these great overland lines the extension of time which they ask for the payment of their indebtedness. He shows that the Government will gain nothing by the adoption of extreme measures; that the Pacific roads ask nothing which is unreasonable or extraordinary; that it is a common experience of railroads to pay bonds on maturity by the issue of other bonds, gaining thereby reductions of interest, while in this particular case, where the extension of only forty-four years is desired, the Government will not only get back all the advances at the end of that time, but a larger rate of interest than it would have to pay if it went into the market to borrow.

Mr. Huntington also dwells with an impressive earnestness upon what the building of these roads has done for the country, and upon the further fact, as entitling them to additional consequences, that their ability to compete with the Canadian Pacific has been practically destroyed by the operation of the Interstate Commerce Act. In view of all of which he holds that Congress, instead of taking undue and unwelcome advantage of their indebtedness, should be governed by a broader and more sagacious policy that points to an ultimate and comparatively early extinction of this debt without destroying the autonomy of the road, or in any wise compromising the security of the Government.

AGAINST THE STANFORD BILL.

The New York Voice, the leading Prohibition newspaper of the United States, while in accord with the Farmer's Alliance on many subjects, is opposed to the Sub-Treasury scheme advocated by Senator Stanford to loan money on unencumbered real estate from the public treasury at a low rate of interest. The Voice says its opposition to the scheme has induced the western section of the Alliance to abandon the project as impracticable.

The National Grange, one of the oldest and strongest farmer's organizations, has issued a circular against the warehouse and Sub-Treasury plans, believing such schemes to be impracticable and far from being the best means of bringing monetary relief to the tillers of the soil, which the Grange feels to be one of the most pressing needs of the hour.

The Farmer's Alliance makes the free coinage of silver one of its cardinal principles, second only to an equitable adjustment of the tariff, and on these issues is in accord with a large majority of the Democratic party.

TARIFF SECRETS.

Senator Plumb, of Kansas, disclosed some tariff secrets Monday during the debate on the sorghum sugar paragraph of the Agricultural Appropriation bill. He declared that for a time the McKinley bill revolved around the payment of two cents per pound bounty to the maple sugar men, which, it was stated, would aid Morrill's re-election in Vermont. Edmunds, too, had written a letter which Plumb declared was now in Culom's pocket, saying if the maple sugar bounty was not retained, he (Edmunds) would pair against the Tariff bill. From this, which is good Republican authority, it is seen that protection might go to Jericho, or any other place away from the United States, so far as the Vermont Senators were concerned, if they did not get a bounty on maple sugar, to help re-elect one or both of them.

HEARST AND THE FORCE BILL.

Senator Hearst during his illness took a deep interest in the Force bill, the discussion of which took up so much of the time of the Senate. The Washington correspondent of the New York Times says no man had a keener appreciation of the infamous character of the measure and the blind partisanship of the men who were striving to make it a law, than the California Senator. When the situation was such as to cause apprehension in the minds of those opposed to the bill, Mr. Hearst showed the most anxiety about his health. He knew the Republican radicals would not hesitate to take every advantage that would result from his death, and whenever the outlook seemed unfavorable he would turn to his clerks and declare he would not die until the bill was beaten.

The depopulation of Iceland is going on steadily. The depreciation in the value of the land has been very marked of late, while the taxes have been considerably increased, and the Icelanders are said to be emigrating in shoals. The population, which was 80,000 ten years ago, is now under 60,000.

The municipal elections in Iowa this week were generally in favor of the Democrats. In Maine, Waterville and Lewiston elect Democratic Mayors, and the vote is so close in Portland that another ballot is necessary.

At Glifton, Arizona, during the recent rains the water was higher than the Aztec ruins, and seven feet higher than the oldest Indian or Mexican ever saw it.

CLOSING SCENES IN THE HOUSE.

Congress Ends in a Burst of Song.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The House of Representatives of the Fifty-first Congress went out in a burst of song. The vocalists of the House on the Republican side gathered in a body near the front row of desks, and as soon as the House was declared adjourned they started up "Marching Through Georgia," which was taken up by the great mass of Republican Representatives. The Democratic chorus retorted with the "Doxology," but their voices were soon drowned in the superior volume of sound from the press gallery, the reporters having taken up the hymn. The Republicans and Democrats alike ceased singing to listen to that of their some time critics whose full, resonant chorus was very effective. The Republicans struck up "Our Fatherland" as the closing note of the "Doxology" died away. The effect was fine as was the singing of "John Brown's Body," taken up immediately after. The occupants of the press gallery for the last numbers on the programme rendered "Good bye Congress," "Good bye My Lover Good bye" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and it was with regret on the part of the immense throng on floor and in galleries that the impromptu musical came to an end.

The House rapidly filled as the final adjournment loomed up less than three hours off, while in the galleries standing room had ceased to be available some time previously and throngs of people jammed the passage ways. The Republicans in the House nailed their colors to the mast, determined to go out of power aggressive, defiant and as full of fight as they had been at any time during the session. No Democrat having prepared the usual vote of thanks to the Speaker, McKinley arose and offered a resolution, thanking the Speaker for the able and impartial manner in which he had performed his duties. Mills demanded the yeas and nays. When at last a vote was announced the Republicans rose in mass, clapping vigorously, and waving papers and books and making the air resound with cheers, the volume of sound being swelled by applause in the galleries. The applause was renewed more vigorously than before as Speaker Reed entered the hall to relieve Burrows, of Michigan, who was temporarily in the Chair. The Democrats jeered at the demonstration and Bland and McClammy shouted out retorts to the Republican applause that were lost in the confusion. Cannon came in for a wild ovation as he presented the conference report on the Deficiency bill, the last report he would have to make. His Republican colleagues sprang to their feet, giving him cheer after cheer and tossing whatever was on their desks into their air in a tumultuous, cyclonic commendation of Cannon. Breckenridge, of Kentucky, amid applause from the Democrats, made a graceful little speech, eulogistic of the treatment the minority had received from Cannon, but the Republicans were chary of joining in the acclamations, being evidently of the opinion that Breckenridge's remarks were reflexively in some measure in derogation of the Speaker. This concluded the necessary work of Congress and the remaining time was chiefly consumed in efforts to secure the passage of local or private bills.

On the Senate side the scenes, while of a more dignified nature than those in the House, were nevertheless animated and spirited.

Wants a Judge Impeached.

Special to the Journal.

SACRAMENTO, March 4.—Amos H. Carpenter, a lawyer of Stockton, to-night petitioned the Legislature to impeach Superior Judge A. P. Catlin, of Sacramento. Carpenter charges that Judge Catlin fined him $200 for contempt of Court for advising a client to violate an order of the Court when the Judge knew at the time of rendering judgment of contempt that the finding was false.

General Sherman's Estate, Special to the Journal.

New York, March 4.—The sons of General Sherman made an application to the Surrogate this afternoon for letters of administration upon the estate of their father. In their petition they stated that they were unable to find a will. The General's personal estate does not exceed $2,500. The Surrogate will issue letters to the two sons at once.

SUB-COMMITTEE ON IRRIGATION.

Its Report to Congress on the Chinese.

Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Representative Leibold to-day made a report to the House on the result of the visit of the Sub-Committee of the Immigration Committees of the House and Senate to the Pacific Coast to investigate the Chinese question. The report says the number of Chinese in this country is decreasing in consequence of the Exclusion Act, although not as rapidly as the committee deem desirable, this being due to the difficulty in enforcing the law. The report deals at length with the well-known fraudulent methods by which the Chinese gain admittance to the United States, dwelling particularly upon the practice by Chinamen of suing out writs of habeas corpus, and giving worthless bonds as security. To meet the evil it is suggested that no Chinaman be allowed to become surety for another, unless he deposits in the bank, either in money or interest-bearing securities, the amount of the bond. The report expresses the opinion that if the present law is strictly enforced it will not be long before the Chinese race in the United States will be extinct. The Chinese quarter in San Francisco is spoken of as a pest breeder which should not be tolerated in an American community. The Chinamen are inveterate gamblers; their lotteries, the report says, flourish to such an extent that it seems impossible that such a state of affairs could exist except with the connivance of the authorities.

The Chinaman is described as having his good qualities and being industrious, but the committee is of the opinion that to rescind the Chinese Act would surely result in the whole Pacific Coast being overrun with Chinese, which would result in serious labor troubles. The committee recommends that the present law be kept in force and vigorously executed.

The Work of Congress, Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—In the work of the Fifty-first Congress three measures, any one of which rises to the dignity of a National issue, stand forth pre-eminent. These are the McKinley bill, the Free Coinage bill and Federal Elections bill. The first passed, the second compromised and the third killed in the Senate. This Congress witnessed a radical innovation in the rules in the House and the determined but fruitless effort to adopt the principal one of these in the Senate. During two years of life twelve Representatives and three Senators, all the latter Democrats, died. The total appropriations by this Congress will probably reach a billion dollars. Only 14 bills were vetoed during this Congress opposed to 1,611 during the last one.

Bills Approved, Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The President to-day approved the Legislative Deficiency, Indian, Consular and Diplomatic, Sundry Civil, Pension and Agricultural Appropriation bills, the joint resolution providing for the organization of a Circuit Court of Appeals, the Act authorizing the portage of railroads at the cascades of the Columbia river, the Act amending the laws in regard to timber culture, the Act incorporating a National Conservatory of Music in America and the Act for the protection of the lives of miners.

Colonel Shafter's Men at Their Old Quarters, Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—The First Infantry regiment, Colonel Shafter commanding, which left here in December for the Department of the Platte and service against the Sioux Indians, returned to-day and the companies returned to their respective stations at Benicia and Angel Island. During their absence about a hundred men were drafted from the regiment to regiments stationed at Eastern points. Lieutenant Mason died in Nebraska from natural causes.

The River at Red Bluff—Probable Par- ticide, Special to the Journal.

RED BLUFF, March 4.—The rain ceased last night; the river is falling to-day slowly. No damage by floods nor a prospect of an overflow.

James Raglin, aged 64, was found dead in his cabin near Paskenta Monday morning. There are suspicions that he was murdered by his son Dick, who is now in jail waiting a preliminary examination. The Coroner held an inquest last night, and found his neck broken and the body bruised.

Public Building Bills, Special to the Journal.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A statement prepared by the clerks to the House Committee on Public Buildings and grounds show that during the past Congress 411 bills for the erection of public buildings were introduced, carrying a total appropriation of $76,635,625. Of this number 93 passed both Houses appropriating $12,676,639, all of which became laws, save four which were vetoed by the President.

Worse Than Whisky.

Special to the Journal.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Mrs. J. A. Porter, living in Lake View, was accidentally poisoned this morning by drinking carbolic acid instead of whisky. She felt badly and went to the pantry to get a drink and took the poison by mistake. She died at 11:30 o'clock after great suffering. She leaves two daughters, 5 and 3 years old, and was 33 years old. Her husband is a real estate dealer.

A Sacramento Levee Broken, Special to the Journal.

SACRAMENTO, March 4.—The levee on the Sacramento river broke near Washington to-day, and a portion of the town south of the railroad track is flooded. About two thousand acres of grain land near Nicolaus is flooded by backwater, but little other damage is done by the rise in the river.

Mutiny on a Fishing Schooner, Special to the Journal.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—The schooner J. Hamilton Lewis, which sailed a short time ago on a fishing cruise, returned to-day ostensibly to reef, but it is stated that there has been a mutiny aboard and that nine men had been placed in irons.

The House refused to concur in the Stewart amendment to the General Deficiency bill, appropriating $404,000 for the payment of Nevada war claims. Nevada should fervently thank God that the House, which made Reed Speaker, passed the Force bill and shelved the Silver bill, is no more.

The Origin of High Heels.

Heels, it is said, owe their origin to Persia, where they were introduced upon sandals in the shape of blocks of wood fixed underneath, such being the root idea of those deformities to which lovely women owe so many of her woes. A high, unsteady heel, it is an open secret, injures the leg tendons and affects the spine as well as internal organs, which are liable to be displaced by the thrown forward position entailed. In Persia, the first home of the heel, however, these blocks of wood are used simply to "raise the feet from the burning sands of that country, and were about two inches high." With the Persian women these blocks were vastly higher than those affected by the men, their height being from eighteen inches to two feet, thus becoming more of the nature of stilts than anything else.

Strangely enough, many years after, a similar fashion came into vogue in Venice; but the motif in this case was comically different, for "by its means jealous husbands thought they would be able to keep their wives at home." The supports of such shoes in Venice were called "chapeines," and to appease the vanity of the ladies, and doubtless also to sugar the pill, were made highly ornate. The height of these chapeines determined the rank of the wearer, an extra coating for the pill, "the noblest dames being permitted to wear them one-half yard or more high."—Hospital.

The Lion's Allments.

If lions and tigers catch cold a dose of powdered quinine is given to them in their food. They sometimes suffer from dyspepsia, and a meal of liver set before them is readily devoured and acts as a cathartic. They seldom need treatment, however, for any trouble except ingrowing nails.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

An Easy Proposal.

Miss Seasoned—Speaking of names, I think Frank is a pretty name. Mr. Charles F. Sylver—Yaas; so do I. That's my middle name. (Gaining courage.) Er—what do you think of Sylver for a name?—Harper's Bazar.

Even Finny.

Pliny the great could see things in front of his nose as well as afar off. "I notice that the women rub the washing in cold water," he wrote one day. "Let them heat the water, and the alkali in the soap will be freed and take far better effect." And only after that did women know how to wash.—Detroit Free Press.

The use of face powder originated in the fancy of a French mountebank, who dredged his head with flour in order to emphasize his idiocy.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can IT BE CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. "My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofula on her neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLISLE, Nauright, N. J. N. B. Be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. HOOD & CO., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

MACKAY-BONYNGE.

What a New York Paper Says of Their Encounter.

The New York Commercial Advertiser, in a long editorial on the recent Mackay-Bonyng episode, concludes: We regret to have to say that Bonyng's letter to our sporting contemporary, the Sun, has turned to ashes on our lips. He utterly ignores Mackay's hint as to putting up bats. He does not even offer to substitute a new pair of trousers for those he so heedlessly sprinkled with his plutocratic gore. Nay, he even denies the knock-down. A most lame and impotent conclusion, we must say. But will the billionaire allow the millionaire to turn up his nose at him with impunity? Not if we know him—not to save a hundred pair of trousers. Grim-visaged war larks in this attempt to rob the victor of the laurels won by bats that he still knows how to put up, and when he puts them up again, may it be in the Polo Grounds, and may we all be there to see.

WANTS A WIFE.

A Woman Without Children that Needs Schooling Preferred.

The Salt Lake Tribune says Postmaster Benton was temporarily paralyzed upon receiving the following dainty note from Nevada:

Wadsworth, February The 14 1891—Mr. P Dear Sir if you know of a Woman That Will make a Poor man a good Wife please give her my a Dress and i Would like a Woman about 30 or 35 years of age That has not got any children That kneeds Schoolin as i am Some Distance from a school you give her my a Dress and She can get all of the Straits a Bout it yours Truly R. J. Tibbits Drect To Wadsworth Washon Co Nev It is to be deeply deplored that Mr. Tibbits has to seek a wife in the City of the Saints, where, in consequence of peculiar marital relations, marriageable women are in brisk demand, but as there are no unmarried women of the required age that has not got any children that kneeds Schoolin in Nevada there is no help for it.

Ministerial Association. The Ministerial Association at the M. E. Church is proceeding nicely. Many of the preachers are unable to attend owing to the storms and long distances some would have to travel, but have sent interesting papers.

Rev. J. A. Brady, of Virginia City, presented an able paper on "The war of the ages and the outlook for the work." Rev. T. E. Sisson's paper on "Immortality" was able and interesting. Papers on "Christian science (so called) and Spiritism" were presented—by proxy—and led to a decidedly interesting conversation. Spiritism was shown to be "nine-tenths deception and one-tenth devil," and it and its fruits may be expressed in three words: "deluded, possessed, damned." Well written and important papers on "Basis of Union in Successful Temperance Work" were read by Rev. O. H. Gardner and from Rev. J. R. Hammond. It was clearly shown that a basis of union was possible, viz.: principle—pure, simple principle, not partisan principle.

Other papers will be read this morning. Everybody welcome.

JAMES H. N. WILLIAMS.

Too Much for Ned.

Governor Nicholls, of Louisiana, as most people know, has lost an arm and a leg, but so doltly have the artificial members been fitted to the stumps that but few people are in the secret of his loss. His colored body servant was left behind on the occasion of his last visit in Vicksburg, and they put at his disposal during his stay there a likely young lad, who was told to try and take the old body servant's place. That night, when Governor Nicholls was ready to retire, he stretched out one of his legs to Ned, the servant, and said: "Ned, unscrew that leg." Ned's eyes began to open with horror, but he obeyed and took the leg off. Governor Nicholls then said, calmly stretching an arm: "Ned, unscrew that arm." The boy rolled up his eyes until nothing but the whites could be seen, but he obeyed and unscrewed the arm. The Governor, who now realized his condition of mind, determined to have a little fun with him, so, reaching out his neck, he said: "Ned, unscrew that head." But the boy never waited to see whether his head would come off or not, and no one ever succeeded in getting him to go near Governor Nicholls again. He said he was the worst "hoodoo" that he ever saw.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Golden Wedding.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Bragg celebrated their golden wedding—the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. A number of friends of the aged couple assembled at their residence to tender their congratulations. Mr. and Mrs. Bragg are yet in vigorous health and it is hoped will live to celebrate their diamond wedding.

The patriotic citizens of La Porte, California, are taking time by the forelock. The Plumas National announces that posters will be out this week for a grand celebration to be held at La Porte on July 4th, 1891. The exercises will consist of an oration, reading the Declaration of Independence, sack and egg races for boys and girls, big fire-works in the evening, the whole to conclude with a grand ball.

The Sacramento News says: Dr. S. Bishop and family of Reno, Nevada, arrived in Sacramento Tuesday morning, with the intention of making this city their future home, their residence being at 1516 O street. Dr. Bishop has been Superintendent of the Nevada State Insane Asylum for eight years. He comes here for the purpose of taking up the active practice of his profession.

It is not quite as dull as some people think. The White House is receiving Spring goods.

AN ASININE PERFORMANCE.

Reconsidering the Vote of Thanks to Our Senators.

The Carson correspondent of the Virginia Chronicle says: Concurrent Resolution No. 14 was the subject of an asinine performance in the Assembly yesterday. The vote by which the resolution had passed the day before was reconsidered and a substitute of flash and trashy literature was offered leaving out of its nauseating hogwash all reference to the vicious provisions of the Force bill the condemnation of which, and thanking of our Senators for their efforts in its defeat were the only purposes for which the resolution was originally introduced. The substitute was lost, but seventeen men went on record as indirectly endorsing the rebellious spirit that conspicuously figured in the bill and slapped Senators Jones and Stewart squarely in the face. The resolution as it came from the Senate then passed by a vote of 25 to 11.

Reports received in Los Angeles are to the effect that two of the Allia train robbers are in custody. One is in jail at Tulare, and the other has been arrested by the Sheriff of San Luis Obispo county. It is said that both are positively identified as the robbers. The third man is believed to be wounded and in Los Angeles receiving medical treatment.

The Chronicle says Harry Thompson, who was shot by his father-in-law in San Francisco a few days ago, was a son of J. F. Thompson, a former resident of the Comstock, and well known in that county.
